Louis Roederer Cristal Brut 2008	Champagne	France	SCR10200

Champagne Rosé

There are two ways of producing Pink Champagne, one process is called blended rosé, where still red wine and white wine are blended prior to the Champagne becoming fizzy, this allows a better control over the color of the Champagne, the shade of pink being the trademark of houses, the other process is called Bleeding Rosé, in this process the still wine used to produce the Champagne is already pink in color and went through a "maceration process" where the skin of the red grapes, colors the juice.

CHAMPAGNE & SPARKLING WINE

Sparkling Wine

Around the world wine makers tend to use a very similar process than the one used in champagne, only the name of the wine changes and this is due to the fact that only sparkling wines produced in the Champagne area, and a few in California, are allowed to bottled under the name Champagne.

WHITE WINES

Sauvignon Blanc

A popular and unmistakable white that's loved for its "green" herbal flavors and sky high acidity. Sauvignon Blanc grows nearly everywhere and is produced in a variety of methods resulting in a wide that range from lean to bountiful. A wonderful choice with herb-driven sauces over chicken, tofu or fish dishes, matched with feta or chèvre, and paired with Thai cuisine.

WHITE WINES

Chenin Blanc

It's hard not to love Chenin Blanc; given its diversity of styles from lean, dry whites and aromatic sparklers, to sweet golden nectars as well as rich brandies. Given the wide range of styles it's hard to pin down a perfect pairing. That said, you just must try Chenin with Asian cuisine... delightful!

Waterkloof Peacock Ridge	Stellenbosch	South Africa	SCR850
Coteaux du Layon	Pays de Loire	France	SCR1100
Ken Forester "the FMC"	Stellenbosch	South Africa	SCR3250

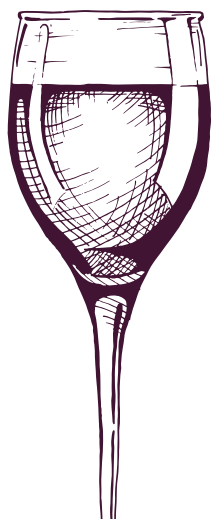

Chardonnay

One of the world's most popular grapes, Chardonnay is made in a wide range of styles from lean, sparkling Blanc de Blancs to rich, creamy white wines aged in oak. Keep spice and flavor intensity low while accentuating creamy, buttery flavors and textures. This is a wine worthy of lobster.

Oaked Chardonnay - Higher-end wines from California, Burgundy, and Australia (among others)

Unoaked Chardonnay - Chablis and entry-level wines from Chile, New Zealand, and other parts of France.

WHITE WINES

Riesling / Gewürztraminer

Gewürztraminer - Treasured for its intense floral aromas, Gewürztraminer has thrived for centuries around Germany. Quality examples are ageworthy, but most are best enjoyed in their youth to preserve acidity. The sweet floral aromatics and ginger-like spice paired with its fuller body make Gewürztraminer a great partner to Indian and Creole Cuisine.

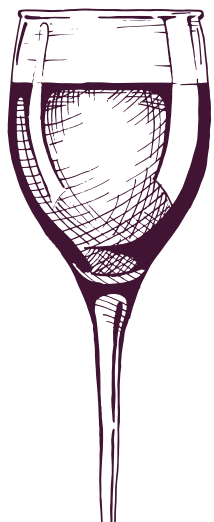

Riesling - An aromatic white variety that can produce white wines ranging in style from bone-dry to very sweet. Germany is the world's most important producer of Riesling. Off-dry Riesling wines make a great pairing to spicy Indian, Asian & Creole cuisines and do excellently alongside duck, pork, bacon, shrimp and crab.

Rosé Wines

Rosé is a bizarre wine category because is it Red or is it White? Well it isn't exactly red wine nor is it white wine, it lies somewhere in between. The secret to the pinkish hue of rosé wine is found in the skins of purple grapes. It's in the skins that you'll find anthocyanin pigments that dye grape juice red and the amount of time you leave it with the skins that gives you that pale salmon hue.

Wine	Region	Country	Price

RED WINES

Cabernet-Sauvignon

The world's most popular red wine grape is a natural cross between Cabernet Franc and Sauvignon Blanc from Bordeaux, France. Cabernet Sauvignon is loved for its high concentration and age worthiness. The rich flavor and high tannin content in Cabernet Sauvignon make it a perfect partner to rich grilled meats, peppery sauces, and dishes with high flavor.
